More information about the survey

- The survey was carried out in May 2013.
- 1,511 people responded to our survey
 - an overall response rate of 33% of the 3,752 who were invited by email (65% for those who had done the previous survey)
 - an additional 268 people responded for the first time through the open web link
- 99.5% defined themselves as committed Christians, and 93% self-defined as evangelicals (2.5% did not want to use the label, and 4.6% were unsure about it).
- As this is an opportunity sample we need to be very cautious in extrapolating from it – we cannot claim that it is statistically representative of the evangelical Christian community across the UK (which in any case has never been well-defined or enumerated). However, we believe it gives a good picture of a wide range of evangelicals, especially those who identify with evangelicalism as represented by the Evangelical Alliance).
- There were slightly more men (53.3%) than women (46.7%).
- There was a wide age range with a bias towards those aged over 40.

Decade born:	1920s	1930s	1940s	1950s	1960s	1970s	1980s	1990s

- Men significantly outnumbered women among the over 60s, while women were a substantial majority among the under 35s.
- A wide spread of denominations were represented, with Anglicans (30%), Charismatics (20%) and Baptists (29%) being the largest categories.
- People living in London, South-east and South-west England were strongly represented, with an relatively few respondents from North-east England, Wales and Northern Ireland.
