It’s our 170th birthday!
Help us invest for the future

In 1846 – 170 years ago last week – more than 800 evangelical Christians came together and sparked a movement that would spread around the world, changing the fabric of society for generations to come. They heard God’s call to unite, to be ‘one body in Christ’.

That’s right, last week was the Evangelical Alliance’s 170th birthday! With 170 years under our belt, the Alliance is older than colour photography, Alexander Graham Bell’s telephone, the lightbulb and the radio. We’ve survived two world wars and countless other conflicts. We even predate the publishing of Jane Eyre and Wuthering Heights.

And we’ve had some impressive milestones and achievements of our own since 1846 – have a look at the timeline to the right and enjoy this anniversary special edition of idea. I hope you will join in us in celebrating, praising God, and in praying for the next 170 years of this crucial work.

As I’ve taken stock of the long life of the Alliance, I praise God for all of you who’ve made it possible – our Evangelical Alliance family. I am so grateful for every one of the gifts you give and thank God for His provision for this work through people like you, who see and understand the need.

You’ve helped make the Church’s united voice heard when and where it matters. You’ve protected religious liberty, supported Christian public leaders, equipped the Church for evangelism, and united local churches to transform their communities. On the centre pages of this anniversary edition, you can read our idea as a celebration of God’s faithfulness over 170 years of mission.

So I hope you won’t mind me making a special request of you today – because if you can’t ask on your 170th birthday, when can you? Will you please prayerfully consider increasing your giving to invest for the future?

Unum Corpus Sumus in Christo, or We are one body in Christ, was the motto of the Evangelical Alliance when it was founded in 1846.
